

The Balboa Inn - finding us when arriving from Your home in Panama

If you have not arranged our airport transfer service and by rental, please print these instructions to find us. We haven't been in business that long so we are not quite a landmark yet. It's really not difficult and the new 'Cinta Costera' along the bay of Panama has made getting to Balboa even easier. But these maps will make sure you can't get lost while driving to the Balboa Inn or worse, call us out of our bed at 2 in the morning :-)

Big overview:

Detail of the last mile:

Look at the numbers on the map above for these helpful hints:

(1)

At the end of the 'Cinta Costera' keep right to go up ramp. If you straight, make a U-turn at the earliest convenience, then another one and try again.

(2)

After almost 1/5 of a mile on the overpass, keep left to leave the overpass (sign: Ave. de los Martires).

(3)

Depending on the time of the day, you'll enter a busy road. This is Avenida de los Martires. Stay in the right lane. After just over 1/2 mile you'll see an Esso gas station on your left hand. Continue straight.

(4)

The road is now going downhill. Remember to stay in the right lane because in about 1/4 of a mile there's an exit to your right; take it.

If for whatever reason you miss it, take the next exit that says "Amador". Make a U-turn when you can and follow the signs to 'Balboa'. If you end up on the Bridge of the Americas, you know you missed that exit too and you will end up in North America!

(5)

But you are a born navigator so after taking the exit, within 1/2 mile you'll end up in Balboa. Take a right as indicated below. If you drive at night, it's the second street on your right hand.

Entering Balboa when coming from Ave. de los Martires; take a right at the "Instituto de Marina Mercante". It's a white with blue building on the corner.

OK. Can't miss it any more. You enter a very nice residential neighborhood with lots of trees. After the 5th speedbump, we're the next building on your right hand . The left part of a duplex: # 2311-A.

Welcome!
